We take data protection seriously.

Protecting your privacy is a matter of utmost importance for us, when we process your personal data. When you visit our website, our web servers will by default store the IP address of your Internet service provider, the website from which you access us, the pages you visit on our website, as well as the date and duration of your visit. The above information is indispensable, both for the technical transmission of the web pages and for a secure server operation. There will be no personalized evaluation of the aforementioned data.

If you convey data via the contact form to us, they will be stored on our servers in the course of our data backup. Your data will exclusively be used to process your request and will be treated with utmost discretion by us. We will not forward your personal data to third parties of any kind whatsoever.

Personal Data

Personal data are details about the circumstances of your personal life. This includes such information as your name, your address and your e-mail address. You are not required to disclose personal data of any kind, if you want to visit our website. However, in some cases we might need your name and address, as well as some additional information, to be able to offer you the service you desire.

The same applies, if we provide information material to you at your request or if we answer your enquiries. If these cases occur, we will always inform you accordingly. Moreover, we will only store such data as you have transmitted to us by default or on your own accord.

If you use one of our services, we, as a general rule, only collect such data as are indispensable for enabling us to offer our services to you. We also might ask you to provide us some additional information, which you would do on a strictly voluntary level. Whenever we process personal data, we do so, because this enables us to offer you our services or to pursue or commercial purposes.

Automatically stored non-personal data

Whenever you visit our web pages, we store certain data for administrative and technical purposes. These are: type and version of the used browser, date and time of access, and the IP address.

These data will be anonymized and only be used for statistical purposes as well as for improving our Internet and online services.
Such anonymized data will be stored separately from personal data in secure systems and it will not be possible to attribute them to individual persons. This means that your personal data will remain protected at any given moment.

Cookies

When you visit our web pages, we might store some data on your computer in the form of cookies. Cookies are small data files which are transmitted by an Internet server to your browser and then stored on the hard disk of your computer. In this process, it is only the IP address which is stored and no personal data at all. The information stored together with the cookies enables us to automatically recognize you the next time you visit our Internet site, which facilitates your using our web pages.

It goes without saying that you are free to visit our web pages without accepting cookies. If you do not wish your computer to be recognized at your next visit, you can decline cookies being used by changing the settings of your browser to “Refuse cookies”. The operating instructions of your browser will tell you how to proceed in each individual case. However, if you refuse cookies, this may result in restrictions in the use of some sections of our web pages.

Newsletter

For the distribution of our newsletter, we use the so-called double opt-in procedure, i.e. we will only send you an e-mail containing our newsletter, if you expressly have confirmed us beforehand that we are to activate the newsletter service. We will then send you an e-mail informing you that we are ready to forward our newsletter to you and ask you to confirm that you wish to receive our newsletter by clicking on a link contained in this e-mail. When you register to receive our newsletter, we will save your IP address and the date of your registration. This information is only stored to provide evidence, if a third party were to misuse your e-mail address for registering you as a recipient of our newsletter without your knowledge or permission. Should you at a later moment not wish to receive our newsletter any more, you can opt out of our newsletter service at any given moment. If you do so, the only transmission cost that will incur is the one corresponding to the base rate.

Security

We have taken technical and administrative security precautions to protect your personal data against loss, destruction, manipulation, and unauthorized access. All our staff members and every service provider engaged by us are obliged to comply with the applicable data protection legislation.

Whenever we collect and process personal data, this information will be encrypted before it is transmitted. This means that your data cannot be misused by third parties. Our security precautions are subject to permanent improvement and our data privacy statement is continuously revised. Please make sure that you have the latest version.

Rights of the person concerned

Please feel free to contact us any time, if you wish to know which personal data we have stored about you or if you wish to have your personal data corrected or deleted. In addition to that, you have the right to restrict the processing of your personal data in line with Article 18 of the General Data Processing Regulation (GDPR, in German: “Datenschutzgrundverordnung” or “DSGVO”), the right to object to the processing of your personal data according to Article 21 of the aforementioned GDPR, and the right to data portability pursuant to Article 20 of said GDPR. Please contact us directly, if you wish to exercise any of your aforementioned rights.
Changes to this Data Privacy Statement

We reserve the right to change our privacy policy, if we are required to do so on account of new technologies. Please make sure that you have the latest version of our data privacy statement. Should our privacy policy be significantly altered, we will communicate such changes on our website.
